"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity, dries debilitating drains, it heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1880 my health was poor," writes Mrs. J. H. Black, of 242 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered from falling of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical. Life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, aches and pains, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another medicine, but it had not done me any good, but I had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from nervousness, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by Dr. J. C. Kilmer over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equaled.

CLEANLY WOMEN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring her scalp with soap she cures dandruff. She is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no better remedy than will do that but Newberry's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

WEAK HEART'S

are caused by Indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of Indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand--swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

digests what you eat, takes the strain off of the heart, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the Stomach and Digestive Tract, Nervous Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach.

After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

MRS. LORING NICHOLS, Penn Yan, N. Y.

I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

STORY OF THE BATTLE.

The London Telegraph's correspondent at Moji says:

"The combined Russian squadrons arrived in Japanese waters through the Bashi straits. The plan of Admiral Rojdestvensky was to divide the Japanese strength at the outset, and his fast cruisers were sent ahead to scout the Straits of Tsushima. The main Russian fleet changed its course as it returned to Bashi straits, but at 5 o'clock in the morning of May 27 it steered through the Straits of Korea in a southeasterly direction within the waters of Iki Island. At this time the combined Japanese fleet had left its prearranged base, and a squadron was detached to press the Russians toward Iki Island. The Russians went full steam ahead, every ship steaming at its maximum practicable speed, affording a most impressive and majestic sight. Meanwhile, the Japanese were lurking in the neighborhood. The Russians passed through the strong current running past Iki Island and proceeded on a due northerly course. The Japanese were ready, and their auxiliary fleet to the north headed off the enemy."

"Now the great battle began. Admiral Togo's vessels maneuvered with perfect precision, and soon the Russians were enfiladed, not in ordinary sense, but in front and on both flanks. The scene which the correspondent witnessed was superbly terrible. The guns of nearly fifty warships were being fired, and now and again a crash was heard as the reports coincided. For a time the belligerents gave shot for shot, and through the conflict the fleets were on the move, but the Russians deviated from their original course."

"With the hostile squadron on each side and another ahead Rojdestvensky was practically defeated within a few hours. There was no possible direction for him to turn. He had fallen into the trap which had been awaiting him ever since he left Madagascar. Hesitation was displayed in the tactics of his fleet, and this proved a forerunner of utter confusion."

"The Japanese knew instantly the enemy was beaten and the concentrated fire now became absolutely infernal. Every gun was trained. The Russians were caught in a cul de sac. Long lines of smoke like sea clouds floated across the water, interspersed with flashes of artillery. At 2:10 p. m. the bombardment reached its zenith."

"Between 3 and 5 in the afternoon a Russian cruiser of the Admiral Nakhimoff class and the converted cruiser Kamchatka foundered. Previously their upper work had been shattered into splinters of wood, iron and steel. Then the Russian fleet broke into utter disorder. The vessels no longer preserved their formation. They went along in a zigzag course, some pointed east and others west."

"At that moment it became evident that Rojdestvensky was completely defeated. The Japanese, with judgment which in supreme moments amounts to inspiration, now advanced to closer quarters. The Russian ships under fire were rendered all the more terribly helpless by the shortened range at which the Japanese were firing, and no longer existed as a fleet. The detached squadrons coordinated in no direction and were utterly demoralized. Gradually they were pressed toward their enemy's coast of the Nagato province."

"The fighting continued until sunset. The wind had now gone down, and it was a glorious night. The Korean sea, usually so rough, was now smooth and transparent, in the blue darkness of the night. The ships stood out something more than specters, something less than fearful citadels. When darkness set in the Russians were still edging toward the north, but the Japanese, in horizontal lines, lay across the enemy's bows, an effective barrier linked with guns."

"At 8 p. m. the Japanese destroyers and torpedo boats went forward like a great cloud of locusts. The sea was swept by the pale tracks of innumerable searchlights. The work of the day was over and the work of the night had begun; the large Japanese warships, which had so well found the range of the enemy in light of day, covered the attack. Beneath the shells from the great cannon the tiny vessels darted forth to sting and sink the enemy. There were scores and scores of them. Rojdestvensky never dreamed that Japan had such a flotilla."

"Under the fire of the enemy, all of whose guns were trained upon them, the little craft dashed on. One moment a shot would strike the water, but not before a boat had darted toward the sides of the heavy warships."

"The night's work resulted in the sinking of the Emperor Alexander III, the Oslavia, the Navarin, and three gunboats. No rest was allowed the enemy. When Sunday dawned the Japanese fleet came to still closer range, pressing the Russians to the northwest coast of Nagato. All day long the battle raged with unabated fierceness, but the Russians had no strategic position in which to offer effective resistance."

"The London Daily Mail's Tokyo correspondent says that the captain of the Russian cruiser Admiral Nakhimoff, who is now a prisoner, relates the following story of the battle between the Japanese and Russian fleets:

"We first saw the Japanese at 6 o'clock on the morning of May 27, when suddenly and unexpectedly we encountered the enemy's fleet, as we were moving to the east of Tsushima. They steamed toward us and opened fire. Only ninety minutes after the firing began a sudden shock was felt under the Admiral Nakhimoff, and she began to sink with great rapidity. My belief is that she either struck a mine or a torpedo. My crew numbered 600 men, a majority of whom went down in the ship, as there was no time to get the men on deck. Myself and a number of survivors, aided by life-belts, swam to a small launch, and about 10 o'clock in the morning we went aboard a fisher boat. All of the officers were sent to Shimonoeki. In the engagement fought off Liancourt Rocks the Russian battleships were surrounded by Japanese ships, which circled about them, pouring in a terrible fire and they almost immediately fell into hopeless confusion. Seeing their plight, Vice Admiral Togo signalled for the battleship Mikasa to demand to know whether the Russians were ready to surrender. Our ships complied with the demand."

Other accounts of the battle describe the roar of the cannonade so terrible that houses were shaken at Yamaguchi, twenty-eight miles distant, and the people supposed it was an earthquake.

Furious Fighting.

"For seven years," writes Gen. W. Hoffmann, of the "War," "I had a bitter battle, with 'stomach and liver trouble, but I won and by the use of Ele. Bitters. In unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in my house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine."
